

International Display
+ Exhibit Corporation

For Immediate Release:
March 30, 2017

Contact: Lauren Stickler, 617-527-7878 ext. 115
lstickler@idec-displays.com

IDEC Displays Marks 50th Anniversary with New Web Design

IDEC Displays' new homepage

Canton, MA—Just in time for its 50th anniversary, International Display & Exhibit Corp. (IDEC Displays) has re-launched its website: idec-displays.com. The full-service exhibit display company retooled the site to create a more interactive experience to better serve and engage clients, prospects, partners and visitors in search of trade show exhibit and display equipment solutions.

The website's new, clean design presents the company's extensive array of custom, modular and portable exhibits; rental and pre-owned solutions; show services capabilities; and display equipment products in a simple, easy-to-navigate format. The homepage offers four distinct points of entry so visitors can dive right in to their area of interest.

The mobile-friendly site is searchable by keyword and includes a blog, case studies, testimonials, and social media links. The site also highlights IDEC Displays' Consultative Approach to trade show marketing: a four-step process to achieving trade show marketing success.

"In celebration of our 50th anniversary, we redesigned and expanded our website so that visitors could quickly and easily navigate and filter the vast array of trade show and display equipment products and services available to find the right solutions for their business," said IDEC Displays President Steve Levin. "Our website reflects our way of doing business: responsive, efficient, straightforward and personalized."

The new Blog page covers the latest trends in modern exhibit design, trade show technology, display products and innovative marketing tools for exhibitor's who want to turn their trade show booth visitors into leads. The site will also feature downloadable guides, case studies and e-books of interest to exhibitors and exhibit managers.

Since 1967, IDEC Displays has been the premier professional exhibit services and display products company in New England, providing turnkey services, including exhibit design and graphics, custom build modular exhibits, portable displays, banners, easels, and other display products for the hospitality industry. Visit us at www.idec-displays.com.

